SAN JUAN ISLANDS FORESTRY PRODUCTS & BUSINESSES DIRECTORY

This directory is intended as a resource for individuals, landowners, forestry workers, and county officials who want to learn more about island wood products and the local businesses that are utilizing our unique forest resources.

The San Juan islands are seeing a renewed interest in growing, harvesting, and building with local trees. The businesses in this directory offer a viable alternative to mainland wood products for all types of projects. Our thin soils and scant rain mean slower growing trees with tight clear grain, perfect for trim, flooring, and furniture. Many local houses, barns, and sheds are clad in rough sawn local boards, often from the land where the building sits. The architects and builders in this directory have created buildings entirely from local timber with beautiful results.

Historically, the islands had a booming timber industry as the forests were cleared for farm land and our harbors made easy access to barge the logs to mill. As the resources were exhausted, the economy shifted, and only in recent years have the forests regrown sufficiently to offer high quality timber at economically viable scales. The growing number of businesses that deal in local wood are part of a larger ethic of forest stewardship that sees the islands' forests not only as a resource, but as a vital part of our overall community health. Safeguarding these forests while sustainably managing and harvesting from them is offering new opportunities for the island economy.

We hope you find this information useful, and if you or your business would like to be included in future editions please contact us — we'd be happy to have you.

Our specialty is producing good-quality timbers, siding, flooring, and trim blanks for local construction projects. By-products that we sell include sawdust, planer shavings, and firewood. Our focus is on sustainably harvesting our family-owned forest with an emphasis on good forest stewardship. Our Douglas-fir is slow-growing and is an excellent product for use in flooring and trim projects. We are currently researching the development of a larger market for these products and analyzing the viability of adding a drying kiln.

Orcas Biomass serves Orcas Island by processing, storing, and distributing all forms of woody biomass and some forms of green waste. Our processing includes chipping, grinding, composting, and milling. Our distribution includes a commercial and retail space for the sale of compost, woody mulch, and chips, as well as lumber and slab wood from salvaged logs.

Orcas Biomass shares yard and shop space with our sister company, Rain Shadow Consulting.

Using sustainable practices appropriate for our bioregion, our goal is to create functional and beautiful landscapes for our Northwest neighbors, and to teach the skills necessary to keep them productive and healthy. Our domain knowledge is deep and extensive, with many years of building productive sites on Orcas Island and the greater Pacific Northwest. We design landscapes based on permaculture ethics and principles. Permaculture design and implementation, edible and medical products, hardwoods, and softwoods.
